Martha Leider was an avid kayaker and found solace on the water spending time with her family while she battled metastatic breast cancer. Martha found and fed “her swans” every weekend and coined the name “food kayak” as the swans came to her for their meals. Our goal is to honor Martha’s memory and to provide access to kayaking for women who are survivors or who are under treatment for breast cancer. Come join us for an inspirational and fun morning on the water. This is an all expenses paid experience. Pizza and soft drinks to follow event.
